

Amanda Palms complex in Hialeah unloaded in short sale

December 08, 2011 01:32PM

The Amanda Palms complex in western Miami-Dade County has been sold for $4.17 million, according to Miami-Dade County court records, the South Florida Business Journal reported. The sale came at a 33 percent discount off the price of the mortgage on the property, which was originally held by Colonial Bank and later acquired by Branch Banking & Trust. Sovereign Real Estate's Marcos Egipciano was the broker on the deal. [\[SFBJ\]](#)
